Background

Chrissie Cotter Gallery (CCG) was established in 1996 as a space for local artists and groups to share their work with the community. Across three decades, the gallery has become an important and much-loved fixture in the Sydney art scene.

In 2026, Chrissie Cotter Gallery celebrates its 30-year anniversary.

Purpose

The Chrissie Cotter Gallery provides a free space for artists, curators, and community groups to exhibit their work and connect with audiences. The program strengthens local culture sharing a diversity of artistic practices and lived experiences with the community.

Aims

The program aims to:

- Provide a no-cost, commission-free venue for artist or community-run exhibitions
- Create professional development pathways and a public profile for emerging artists and curators
- Engage the local community and art lovers from across Sydney with a diverse showcase of contemporary Inner West visual arts practice.

The Gallery

Chrissie Cotter Gallery is located in the heart of the Inner West, on Pidcock Street within the Camperdown Park precinct—just four kilometres from Sydney's city centre. Nestled in a residential area, the gallery sits between the Camperdown Commons and the local tennis courts.
