

Writing competition Dreaming with eyes open

Dream with your eyes open and write a short story about your wildest daydream.

Once upon a time I opened my eyes to find myself in the wildest dream. I found myself waking up to a jar of nutella next to my bed. I tried to stop myself from opening the jar and sticking my tongue right in the middle, but I started to feel like the chocolate was already melting in my mouth.

My mouth was watering as I imagined the nutella sticking to my gum. It was like I could never be stopped. I felt a slight pain in my left side and assumed it was nothing. All of a sudden I could feel gobstoppers bursting out of my mouth. Pink, red, yellow gobstoppers smashing on the floor.

My mum barges in through my bedroom door with a large piece of chocolate mud cake topped with hundreds and thousands. My mum asked me "What's wrong?" but all I replied was "that cake looks scrumptious" I said.

All I can think of are my favorite sweets however to my disappointment I wake up to no nutella beside my bed and no gobstoppers coming out of my mouth. But a brand new blue toothbrush waiting to be opened signed off by the tooth fairy.