

Dreaming with your eyes open 🙄

My Wildest day-dream was called:

The real world and dream world collide.

I was out at the beach and the sun was setting. It was quite relaxing. This lamb walked up to me and glared at me. I was surprised because you wouldn't expect a lamb at the beach, especially.

I stared at it as it walked closer to me. I was quite shocked that a lamb would be here. Soon the lamb was in front of me, its head looking at the water then me. Somehow i knew it was signalling me to go in the water

I dipped my foot into the water, it was cold but every step I took deeper and deeper into the ocean felt like someone was controlling me. While I was moving I felt like a puppet but my mouth didn't move and I kept walking.

Soon the water reached my neck and I closed my eyes as i went under the water my feet were no longer touching the sand i was floating in the shape of a starfish as the water dragged me making the water go backwards soon the water started to rise and it formed into the craziest thing i have ever seen.. IT WAS A TSUNAMI AS BIG AS THE WORLD! I was horrified that I didn't utter a word.

Soon the tsunami started to collapse as fast as an emu. It was like my worst nightmare and I couldn't get out of it. I just wished that I would survive but I didn't drown or anything. I was on top of the tsunami sitting down and next to me was the lamb. I watched as the tsunami went crazy.

It went side to side quick and slow but whenever we went near the sand it switched directions left right up down. It was like the tsunami didn't want to hurt anyone, it was just.. Having fun. But soon i accidentally fell while i was falling in a weird way i saw a slight grin on the lamb as i was washed up on the sea. When I woke up I was in a little village filled with little baby lambs. The lambs started staring at me like I was an uninvited guest. I was confused and a little scared there were even lambs working swimming as if they were real people! The only weird thing was that it all felt like an illusion I could hardly escape. It felt as if I was stuck in a different world where everything was different. I was stuck there forever. It felt like there was more freedom in a way too.. All of a sudden I felt tapping on my shoulder but no one was there and slowly started to fall asleep. When I woke (again.) I saw I was in a hospital bed, I was completely confused but the doctor told me I was in a coma for a year. I was confused and silent while my family was next to my bed holding my hand..