Dreaming with eyes open

Dream with your eyes open and write a short story about your wildest daydream.

I am looking outside my window it is raining very loudly. I was thinking I should make it Sunny! You might be asking how can I make it Sunny? Because I am a Superhero, I can stop rain and make it Sunny, and make it rain again if I like. Being a Superhero is not so easy I have to stop rain monsters!

You might be asking what is a rain monster? A rain monster is a type of water, rain monsters were invented by scientists who went to a planet where water drops join to become a rain monster.

You might be wondering how I got my Superpowers, it's a long story. I was born on a planet called Gufess and everyone there is given a Superpower by the Gufess Crystal when they touch it, and mine was making water into light.

When I went to school there was a bully, his name was Jeff, he was older than me and his Superpower was making fire. And now he is the villain of earth because he makes fire burn on and on, and I make the fires stop burning with rain.

My planet was destroyed by a massive meteor. But wait! Now my teacher is calling my name. Wake up and say "What's Happening?"

And my teacher replies "You're doing 100 lines of 'I must not daydream'... What!!!"
