Thómas Cúirn-

Dream with your eyes open and write a short story about your wildest daydream.

Thómas cúirn was a talented young explorer left his home in saxon to make his mark on his home great britain and serve his queen the beloved Victoria. He set sail on the great Connistatú a true queen of the sea with his best mate Rory O'Neill a famed botanist and swordsman. They were off in the thin twines of fast tugging their limits crossing over the black sea to break new land.

As a ferocious storm broke free and in its midst is the Connistatú raging and pushing through the water when Thomas noticed swift movement throughout the water he was worried sick until Rory called out pod of dolphins ahead. Then A gargantuan tail or, or maybe tentacle, lashed onto the boat they were going down tentacle after tentacle sunk the boat and Connistatú was gone but Thomas was not done fighting he knew what he was subjected to the tyrannical treacherous Kracken. He unlike Rory was afloat but there was no time to grieve he grabbed a small sharp piece of wood however that was still the fighting end of Thómas Cúirn.
