

The Great Adventure

There were two young sibling safari explorers, named Daisy and George. They loved each other very much, and always cared for each other. Daisy's birthday was coming up in a couple of weeks. So, they were planning where they would adventure for her birthday.

First Daisy thought the zebras could be nice to watch, then George suggested feeding the ostriches. Then Daisy came up with the best idea ever! They would go and walk with the lions!

Daisy's birthday arrived and she was so excited to find the lions. She got ready, brushed her hair, ate breakfast, brushed her teeth and put on her safari shoes. "Away we go!" she said excitedly. "Ok birthday girl, you lead the way!" George said enthusiastically.

So off they went, on a new adventure kicking up dust and proudly walking side by side. Daisy was so happy that she could jump right out of her shoes and touch the sky! She couldn't believe just how lucky she would be to walk so close to real life lions.

When George and Daisy got to the lions they were all fast asleep. This was usual for lions, they rested during the day and hunted at night. "This is the perfect opportunity to get close to them," said Daisy.

Daisy and George crept close to the lions, but George accidentally stepped on one's tail and woke it up! The lion woke up instantly and let out a thunderous "ROAR!!!" Then the lion pounced on Daisy and George and threatened them by waving his sharp claws so close to their faces. Daisy quickly reached into her pocket, she calls it the 'just in case pocket' for times like this! She pulled out a boiled egg that her mum had packed her for the journey and throwed it to the other side of the lions and quickly hid behind a large rock. The smell of the egg was so strong that it woke up the entire herd of lions! "What do we do now?" cried George in despair.

Once again Daisy reached into her 'just in case pocket' and this time pulled out a long whip. She hit it twice on the ground which made a whacking sound while George blasted the Indiana Jones theme music off his phone.

Suddenly, the lions were getting hypnotised by the music blasting off George's phone. Luckily the music made the lions run far from Daisy and George. Daisy and George walked home talking about the close encounter with the lions.

When they arrived home, George prepared Daisy's birthday cake. Everyone sang happy birthday and Daisy blew out the candles and made a wish "I wish that next year's birthday adventure will be even better than this year's!"