Today, Alex and his mum go to Target, and buys a toy science kit. After Alex gets home he immediately opens his first experiment. But little did Alex know he put too much of an ingredient to the mixture. Later that night, Alex accidentally knocked down his experiment and a drop of the mixture fell into his mouth. The world vanished. A few seconds is all it takes for Alex to know - he was in a different world! He saw futuristic machines levitating, robots everywhere, and people wearing strange robotic clothing. What surprised Alex the most was there was a hologram of a dinosaur roaming the city. Suddenly he heard the puffing and panting of a runner. Alex asked the man what was the year and the man replied by saying "It is 2060 this year." Alex was shocked for a moment. Then he said "How can I go home to the past." "You can go to the past by finding the time gemstone and use it," said the man, "Now excuse me I better get back to running." Alex decided to take a walk in a nearby forest. When he reached the forest he heard a distant cry followed by the smell of smoke! Alex ran towards the sound and saw a village up ahead, a man shouted "Help!" Alex saw his chance to help and then get a computer and search for the time gemstone. He asked if he could have a computer and the man said if he defeated the robot dragon up ahead. Alex went ahead and saw the robot dragon in real life. But Alex was smarter. He ran as fast as the wind to a dusty corner picking up a padlock on the way, when he placed the magnet just above some dust miniature magnets started to attract in to the padlock. Alex then carefully took the mini magnets off, and started combining more and more in order to make a big magnet. He ran back to the forest. When he reached it he stabbed the padlock super hard into a tree causing the tree sap to come out. Alex collected it, and stuck the magnets together, he sprinted back to the village, and tossed the magnet next to a non burning house. The robot dragon loved destruction so it went to burn the house, but got caught by the magnet. The dragon was taken apart from the back by the villagers, and Alex got a computer as a gift from the villagers. Alex searched for the time gemstone, and found it. He built a machine that harvests the energy from the time gemstone for him, and after one week he heard the sound of a alarm clock. Alex woke in his bed. It was all a dream! Except there was the science kit right next to him.
