

Road Worker REXY

Once upon a time, a long time ago. Not that long ago there were like cars and stuff. There was a dinosaur! Now your probably wondering how dinosaurs and cars could be together. Well there was some point in time where cars were invented when dinosaurs <sup>were</sup> ~~was~~ still around. I think.

Anyway, the dinosaurs name is REXY and he is a Tyrannosaurus Rex with two incredibly short [2 centimetres wide] arms. He works on the road in a construction crew and he feels a little bit frustrated by his 2 centimetre wide arms. He feels like he is holding the construction crew back. It's hard to reach things.

His goal is to keep the road safe by cars and buss. Now your also probably wondering how REXY arms could be 2 centimetres wide well you see this picture. Kmm that picture is kind of to scale! You would probably think dinosaurs are massive especially T Rex's but no, turns out their g

Suddenly, a small Triceratops dino comes scooting on his scooter across the road when rapid cars start rattling it's way to the Triceratops and it's too short for the cars to see him. Raxy doesn't have enough to get suddenly grab the stop sign because his arms are too short, and he doesn't have enough time to tell the cars to stop! What will he do? But then he remembers that he has a loud roar which startles the cars so much that it makes them stop. He usually doesn't like it because he likes to keep the road flowing.

But this was an emergency, it needed to stop right away. So, with quick thinking brain he took a deep breath and did a big loud ROAR!

Then, all of them stopped and Raxy said to the little dino "You always have to wait your turn when cross the road when it's a green man it's your turn". So after that everyone [including Triceratops dino] always wait their turn to cross the road!

